

Konstantin Niewerth

Teaching Experience

- Summer 2025 Teacher (Classics) WorldStrides
- Designed and taught a one-month syllabus covering the Classics from 500 BCE to 500 CE, particularly focusing on ancient philosophy, history, and literature.
 - Taught both to small classes of up to 5 and medium-sized classes of 10-15. Sessions duration ranged from 2 to 3.5 hours, 6 days a week.
- 2020 - Present Tutor (Part Time) Freelance
- Tutored around 15 individuals aged 14-18 in preparation for GCSE, A-Level, and IB Courses, as well as university applications. Covered Philosophy, Theology, Theory of Knowledge, Politics, Latin, and Ancient Greek, as well as general essay-writing and speaking skills in preparation for university admissions and interviews.
-

Education

- 2025 - 2026 MA Philosophy` Rijksuniversiteit Groningen
- Studied Philosophy at the University of Groningen. Focused on contemporary analytic philosophy, though also familiar with broader philosophical traditions, particularly 20th-century and ancient philosophy.
- 2023 - 2025 MPhil European Politics Oxford University
- Gained extensive knowledge of European and International Politics, International Relations, as well as their historical contexts in the 19th and 20th century. Focused on political philosophy, both contemporary and ancient. Concluded studies with a 30,000-word quantitative research paper.
- 2019 - 2022 BA Classics (1st Class Honours) Durham University
- Spent three years studying Classics to a high level, covering ancient History up to 600 AD and including modules in early modern history. Focused on Ancient History, Philosophy and Politics.
-

Additional Experience & Skills

- Fluent in German and English, experience with cross-cultural communication
- Wrote for various journals and papers as a Freelance political and philosophical writer